Get Ready—Get Set—Go!

Get ready — get set — and go for a wonderful year at Clarke. And only YOU can make it wonderful.

The SLC is your student government. You make it what it ing a place of prominence in schools to-There are loads of things that YOU can do to make it "click:" observe school rules, go to assemblies, volunteer to serve on committees or to sit "under the clock" during elections, attend the concert-lecture series.

There are a lot of clubs here at Clarke and a lot of people in other of his "new looks" this fall fea- as red and pink together. Young men them. But how many members are active? If YOU belong to CCP, the Sodality, or the Press Club, why not be in the center of things, even if it means working on the rehabilitation committee after a party.

Everyone likes a mixer, but no one cares for a flop. This year's calendar has many socials scheduled. If YOU always make those mixers a date on YOUR calendar, they're sure to be successful.

Volleyball will soon be rolling into the sportlight. It would be fun to try out for your class team. Or in case you don't play, a gym packed full of cheerers is good for the morale of the players. Will YOU be one of them?

And, of course, it's up to YOU to keep the scholastic average of the college up on top.

Ready now? Set? Then GO for a happy, wonderful year!

> Also new on campuses this fall are the many foreign students who are in America to attend our colleges and universities. In Education for One World the Institute of International Education recently defined a foreign student as a citizen of a country other than the United States who is studying here in an institution of higher education and who plans to return to his home country when his studies are completed. According to the Institute's census report. there were 33,833 such students in the United States last year-and this year's

The report stated that humanities Among the many new accessories are and engineering were the most popuincluded the vari-colored rope beads lar fields, attracting almost 7,000 students each. Social science claimed 5,000, and physical and natural sciences had 4,000. Medicine and business administration were next with 3,000. Education occupied 1,500 students from foreign countries and agriculture was the main interest of 1,-400. The average age of these students is 20-25 years.

> A young man from Germany who studied at Carroll college in Helena, Mont., commented on his stay here in America before returning to his native country this fall. He was impressed, he said, with the high scholastic standards and felt that American students were extremely fortunate to have such extensive educational opportunities.

Christopher Dawson advocates a new look at this civilization of ours. In an article in a recent America he writes that "one of the chief defects of modern education has been its failure to find an adequate method for the study of our own civilization." Western culture, which grew out of European civilization, is modern civilization. To understand the nature of this Western civilization, a systematic study of it has become a necessary part of the education of students today. At Colum-C bia university the study of contemporary Western civilization is a course required of all students, on the assumption that a civilized person must know of the origin and growth of his civilization in order to participate intelligently
